BELITTLED WOMEN

A charming book about a teenage girl who resents her mother's obsession with a 19th century novel and learns a lesson about the importance of family when an unscrupulous reporter comes to town.

Jo Porter absolutely hates Little Women by Louisa May Alcott, the iconic American novel about four sisters and their coming of age, due to the fact that her mother has converted their house into Little Women museum where Jo and her sisters are forced to reenact the plot of the book for tourists over and over again.

Jo wants nothing more than to get out and do something—anything!—not related to Little Women. When famed photojournalist Andrea Coster and her cute teenage son Hudson show up to document the family's museum for Andrea's next book, Jo confides in them all her frustrations.

But when it turns out all Jo's complaints were used as fodder for Andrea's scathing article about the family's museum, she has to figure out how to save her family from ruin and earn back their trust—and perhaps admit there's something to the book she hates so much after all.

- A 2007 winner of Utah Arts Council Award for Best Young Adult Novel

In the vein of Jay Asher's Thirteen Reasons Why, a teenage girl tries to unravel the final days of her best friend, who died by suicide, and discovers that the people in her community are hiding dark secrets.

Kira thought she knew everything about her best friend, Haylee. But when Haylee commits suicide immediately after her first date with her longtime crush, Bradley Johansen, Kira is left with nothing but questions, and a gaping hole in her life where Haylee used to be.

Kira is sure that the answers to her questions must be written in Haylee's journal, but she's not the only one searching for it. The more Kira learns about Haylee's past, the more certain she is that other people grieving for Haylee are keeping secrets—especially Bradley, and Haylee's attractive older cousin Nick. Kira is desperate to get to Haylee's journal before anyone else finds it—to discover the truth about what happened to Haylee.

And to hide the things that Haylee wrote down about her.

- A Junior Library Guild Selection
- A May/June 2021 Kids Indie Next Pick
- Buzzfeed's "Delightfully Charming" Romance Books

Nothing will stop Madeline Moore from taking over her family's independent bookstore after college. Nothing, that is—until a chain bookstore called Prologue opens across the street and threatens to shut them down.

Madeline sets out to demolish the competition, but the guy who works over at Prologue seems intent on ruining her life. Not only is he taking her customers, he has the unbelievable audacity to be... extremely cute.

But that doesn't matter. Jasper is the enemy and he will be destroyed. After all—all's fair in love and (book) war.

Reviews:

—Kirkus

"This lighthearted page-turner is recommended for all young adult collections."

—School Library Journal

"Rodkey offers realistically mutable characterization; though prickly Madeline sometimes fails to fully consider the consequences of her actions, her choices deepen the impact of her growth. The You've Got Mail-style romance is well executed in this debut, only improved by Rodkey's cognizant depiction of the financial struggles of bricks-and-mortar bookstores."

—Publishers Weekly

"Packed with smart humor and sparkling prose, Last Chance Books strikes both the funny bone and the heartstrings. You'll root for Madeline as old and new relationships thwart her fight to save her family's bookstore. A delightful read."

BY THE BOOK

In this clever YA rom-com perfect for fans of Kasie West and Ashley Poston, a teen obsessed with 19th century literature tries to cull advice on life and love from her favorite classic heroines to disastrous results—especially when she falls for the school’s resident Lothario.

- A Forever Young Adult’s “Top 10 of 2020”

As a devotee of classic novels, Mary Porter-Malcolm knows all about Mistakes That Have Been Made, especially by impressionable young women who fall for the charms of scoundrels.

So when a girl at her new high school nearly succumbs to the wiles of a notorious cad, Mary starts compiling the Scoundrel Survival Guide, a rundown of literary types to be avoided at all costs. Unfortunately, Mary is better at dishing out advice than taking it. The number one bad boy on her list is the same boy she can’t help but fall in love with. As her best intentions go up in flames, Mary discovers life doesn’t follow the same rules as fiction. If she wants a happy ending in real life, she’ll have to write it herself.

Reviews:

“In this refreshing first novel, Sellet manages the large cast of characters well, while portraying the protagonist’s big family, her small circle of friends, and her first romance with considerable wit and insight. As Mary struggles with the practical and emotional troubles arising from her many mistakes, her rueful, self-deprecating narrative is sometimes impossible to read without laughing out loud. A smart, engaging romance.”

—Booklist, STARRED review!

“A worthy addition to most romance shelves. Put in the hands of readers who love a smart and precocious cast of characters, reminiscent of Amy Heckerling’s film Clueless.”

—School Library Journal

“I loved every minute of this story[ ...] Amid the brief diary entries and opulent prose, Sellet manages to hide a clever and biting social commentary in Mary’s point of view. One doesn’t need intimate familiarity with the classics to enjoy BY THE BOOK, but the more you know, the more you’ll laugh.”

Can Skylar figure out her feelings, prove her app's potential, and win the academic competition without losing her friends—or is her path to greatness over before it begins?

TECHNICALLY, YOU STARTED IT

A hilarious, snarky, and utterly addicting YA debut about a girl whose texting meet-cute goes horribly wrong when she learns the boy she's been messaging for months isn't who she expected.

When a guy named Martin Nathaniel Munroe II texts you, it should be obvious who you're talking to. Except there's two of them (it's a long story), and Haley thinks she's talking to the one she doesn't hate.

A question about a class project rapidly evolves into an all-consuming conversation. Haley finds that Martin is actually willing to listen to her weird facts and unusual obsessions, and Martin feels like Haley is the first person to really see who he is. Haley and Martin might be too awkward to hang out in real life, but over text, they're becoming addicted to each other.

There's just one problem: Haley doesn't know who Martin is. And Martin doesn't know that Haley doesn't know. But they better figure it out fast before their meet-cute becomes an epic meet-disaster . . .

Reviews:

“This quick and compulsive read relies on an elaborate case of mistaken identity and a phone-based relationship that affords Martin and Haley the chance to get to know each other outside of the strictures of high school hierarchies and teenage insecurities. The story unfolds entirely in text messages, which run the gamut of goofy inside jokes, self-aware angst and a slow burn of building feelings.”

—The Washington Post

“Johnson’s clever debut speaks to Generation Z’s cyberculture by validating online friendships.”

—Kirkus Reviews

- #1 on the Amazon chart!
- #3 Publishers Weekly bestseller!

Spensa's adventures continue in this thrilling third installment, in which Spensa must uncover the mystery behind her abilities in order to help her people save their corner of the galaxy.

Spensa's life as a Defiant Defense Force pilot has been far from ordinary. She proved herself one of the best starfighters on the planet Detritus and she saved her people from extermination at the hands of the Krell, the enigmatic alien species that has been holding them captive for decades. What's more, she traveled light-years from home to infiltrate the Superiority, the governing galactic alliance bent on dominating all human life. The Superiority has started a galaxy-wide war and plan to use Delvers, ancient, mysterious alien forces that can wipe out entire planetary systems in an instant, as their weapons. Spensa knows that no matter how many pilots the DDF has, there is no defeating this predator.

Except that Spensa is Cytonic. She faced down a Delver and saw something eerily familiar about it. And maybe, if she's able to figure out what she is, she could be more than just another pilot in this unfolding war. She could save the galaxy. The only way she can discover what she really is, though, is to leave behind all she knows and enter the Nowhere.

A place from which few ever return. To have courage means facing fear.

And this mission is terrifying.

LUX

- #51 bestseller on Audible

An audio original novella co-written by Brandon Sanderson and Steven Michael Bohls, set in Brandon Sanderson's #1 bestselling Reckoners universe, following a new cast of Reckoners that must infiltrate the flying city of Lux to take down the evil Epic Lifeforce.

When the great red star Calamity appeared in the sky, some believed the end had come. They were right.

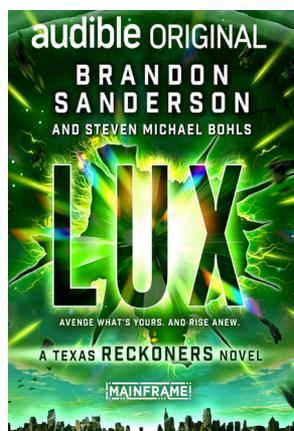

Calamity created the Epics: humans with incredible powers they didn't deserve.

They could have saved mankind. They could have lifted us into harmony and prosperity. Instead they burned. They slaughtered. They conquered. And then they ruled.

Jax has learned all of this the hard way. Orphaned at an early age, he's spent most of his childhood training to be a Reckoner—determined to find the Epics' weaknesses, unlock their secrets, and protect those of us who are still left.

But now, the mysterious High Epic Lifeforce has arrived with his flying city, Lux, to plunder what's left of Texas. So Jax and his ragtag team—the few who remain of the once-mighty Texas Reckoners – must take their battle to this floating fortress of riches – and defeat the invincible.

To avenge what has been lost. And rise anew.

THE USUAL SUSPECTS

Fans of Jason Reynolds and Sharon M. Draper will love this honest middle grade mystery novel that pushes against assumptions about “troubled students” and “bad kids.”

- An Amazon Teacher’s Pick

Thelonius Mitchell is tired of being labeled. He’s in the special education classes, separated from the “normal” kids at school who don’t have any “issues.”

That’s enough to make all the teachers and students look at him and his friends with a constant side-eye. (Although his disruptive antics and pranks have given him a bad reputation too.)

When a gun is found at a neighborhood hangout, Thelonius and his pals become instant suspects. Thelonius may be guilty of pulling crazy stunts at school, but why do people assume he’s a criminal?

Thelonius begins his own investigation but as he gets closer to finding the culprit, it becomes clear that there are forces at work that want to keep the status quo and won’t stop until he drops the case.

CRAZY IN POUGHKEEPSIE

The inimitable Daniel Pinkwater brings his zany wit and wisdom to this charming and silly slice-of-life adventure story, in which a boy seeking guidance embarks on an adventure around the city of Poughkeepsie with his brother, an eccentric guru, and their misfit friends.

Mick is a good kid, but maybe he can use just a little guidance. But it's unclear who will be guiding whom, because Mick's brother came home from Tibet with the self-proclaimed Guru Lumpo Smythe-Finkel and his dog Lhasa—and then promptly settled both of them in Mick's bedroom.

The thing about this kind of guru is that he doesn't seem to know exactly what he's trying to do. He sure does seem to be hungry, though.

So Mick agrees to something like a quest, roaming the suburbs with the oddest group of misfits: Lumpo and Lhasa; graffiti-fanatic Verne; and Verne's unusual friend Molly. Molly is a Dwerghish girl—don't worry if you don't know what that is yet—and she seems to be going off the rails a bit.

Along the way, the gang will get invited to a rollicking ghost party, consult a very strange little king, and actually discover the truth about Heaven. Or a version of the truth anyway, because in a Daniel Pinkwater tale, the truth is never the slightest bit like what you're expecting.

Reviews:

Molly O'Malley is a clever, adventurous girl. She is also a Dwerg. Dwergs are strange folks who live very quietly in the Catskill mountains, have lots of gold, and are kind of like dwarves (but also not!).

Molly isn't interested in cooking and weaving, as she is expected to be. So, she sets off to see the world for herself. Which means a new job, a trip to New York City, prowling gangsters, an adorable king, a city witch, and many historical ghosts. More importantly, it means excellent pizza, new friends, and very quick thinking.

Now someone is pursuing the Dwergs for their gold. Can Molly O'Malley save the day?

BARELY FLOATING

A coming-of-age story set in the world of synchronized swimming, about a young girl learning to balance her dreams with friendship.

Nat's parents are politically outspoken, her mother in particular. That's great in a lot of situations, but not when Nat wants to look at fashion magazines, and certainly not when she wants to go out for the LA Mermaids, a synchronized swim team.

Nat goes to the trouble of putting together an impassioned presentation to convince her parents to let her join the team—and nope. Mom's not having it, and Nat can't help but suspect part of it's because of her weight. As much as Nat's mom encourages Nat to love her body the way it is, she's afraid of Nat being teased about the way her body looks in a swimsuit.

But Nat isn't one to let her parents get in the way of her dreams. Soon she's using her cousin as cover to get to and from practice, she's straining her once iron-clad friendship with her best friend Joanne—and concocting schemes left and right to pay for her membership and costumes, and to go with the team for away meets. But Nat's lies catch up with her just as things are really taking off with her life as a Mermaid, and she must navigate the dangerous waters of a spurned best friend and a lied-to mom.

SOMETHING CLOSE TO MAGIC

A cozy, funny YA fantasy perfect for fans of Rainbow Rowell and Sarah Rees Brennan, about a baker's apprentice who must embrace her magical talents in a world where magic is seen as useless.

Aurelie is an overworked, underappreciated apprentice in Basil's Bakery when a young lady in a full-length duster walks in, hands her a set of Seeking stones, and asks for her help.

In a country where magic is seen as a useless gift and Seeking was old-fashioned even before magic went out of style, it's a rare skill—but Aurelie has it. And the young lady, who turns out to be a bounty hunter named Iliana, can use it. And she won't leave Aurelie alone, despite Aurelie's fear of losing her apprenticeship and her one chance at a stable life.

Until the day when Iliana asks for her help rescuing someone in the dangerous Underwood, which sounds suspiciously like an adventure. When the "someone" turns out to be Prince Hapless, the charming-but-aptly-named spare-to-the-spare prince, Aurelie's careful life is upended. Her only chance at saving her apprenticeship lies in getting him safely back to the palace—but the more time she spends with Hapless, the less she can stand the thought of going back to her solitary, grueling life at the bakery.

When it turns out the palace isn't a safe place for Hapless either, Aurelie has to decide whether she'd rather lose her apprenticeship—or the prince.
